History—The Passion Play

You don't have to be religious to appreciate dedication, commitment and a famous play! The world-renowned Oberammergau Passion Play, or Passionsspiele, began not as a theatrical production but as a desperate plea to God. During the early 17th century, the Thirty Years' War (1618-1648) and the bubonic plague devastated Central Europe. For a time, the remote village of Oberammergau had been spared from the ravages of disease due to its strict quarantine. The desperate villagers gathered and made a solemn vow: if God would spare them from the plague, they would perform a play depicting the life and suffering of Christ every ten years. After making this promise, the village's death rate is said to have miraculously ceased.

True to their word, the survivors staged the first performance of the Passionsspiele in 1634. For nearly 400 years, their descendants have faithfully kept this promise, turning a moment of profound crisis into an enduring legacy of faith and art.

This amazing event is almost sold out already and dates were just announced. If you are interested, please don't hesitate to make your reservation now for $25. per person and email to snow@sobercelebrations.com or Fax 888-852-0167.
